Form CRS: Client Relationship Summary

Item 1: Introduction

Namsoft Advisors LLC (the "Firm") is an investment adviser registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. Investment advisers and broker-dealers offer different services and charge different fees, and it is important for you to understand the differences. Free and simple online tools can help you understand those differences and allow you to research firms and financial professionals at the SEC's investor education website (www.investor.gov/CRS).

Item 2: Relationships and Services

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

We offer clients the opportunity to access a series of curated model portfolios provided by third parties and us. Except with respect to assets managed through retirement accounts, ee can recommend model portfolios to clients based on their investment objectives, risk tolerance, time horizon, liquidity needs, financial circumstances, and restrictions, but clients are free to accept or reject our recommendations. Once clients select model portfolios, Namsoft executes trades to replicate the holdings in the client's account and update them as necessary based on instructions from the creator of the model portfolio. Namsoft manages assets on a discretionary basis, meaning it has authority to execute transactions without client consent for each transaction. Our services are accessible only through our website available at www.runplutus.com (the "Platform").

Namsoft's recommendations are limited to the model portfolios on the Platform, and we do not recommend individual investments. Nonetheless, the model portfolios on the Platform could include, as applicable, individual stocks and bonds, exchange-traded funds (ETFs), options, futures, digital assets, and cash equivalents. We review client portfolios at least weekly. We do not impose a minimum portfolio size or minimum fee to work with clients. However, model portfolios may have investment minimums or suitability criteria that must be satisfied in order to access such model portfolios.

For more information about our services, please review Item 4 of our disclosure brochure, which can be found at www.adviserinfo.sec.gov.

Conversation Starters: Here are some additional questions you can ask us to learn more about our services:

- Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service? Why or why not?
- How will you choose investments to recommend to me?
- What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education, and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?

Item 3: Fees, Costs, Conflicts, and Standard of Conduct

What fees will I pay?

For our services, you pay us an asset-based fee on assets under management (including cash) based on the market value of assets as of each day when fees are billed. Fees are billed 252 days per year. Our fees are generally deducted from client accounts, but clients can instead elect to pay our fees via credit card, which payments are facilitated by a third-party payment provider.

In addition to the fees we charge, other firms will also charge you fees and expenses if you implement our recommendations, which could include brokerage commissions, mark-ups and mark-downs on fixed-income transactions, futures commissions, and other transaction costs; option premiums; custodial fees; reporting charges; charges imposed by ETFs (e.g., fund management fees, distribution fees, and other fund expenses); deferred sales charges; odd-lot differentials; transfer taxes; wire transfer and electronic fund fees; and other fees and taxes on brokerage accounts and securities transactions.

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying.

For more information about the fees and expenses you could pay in connection with our services, please review Item 5 of our disclosure brochure, which can be found at www.adviserinfo.sec.gov.

Conversation Starters: Here are some additional questions you can ask us about our fees:

- Help me understand how your fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money, and what conflicts of interest do you have?
When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means. A conflict of interest exists when we recommend certain portfolios that may be more likely to increase in value because this could result in more overall compensation as our fees are based on the market value of assets under management. Nonetheless, such model portfolios may be riskier or more speculative than other model portfolios.
Conversation Starters: Here are some additional questions you can ask us about the conflicts of interest we face:

- How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?

For more information about the conflicts of interest we face when rendering services to you, please visit www.adviserinfo.sec.gov.

How do your financial professionals make money?
Our employees are compensated in the form of salary and bonuses and our owners are compensated with company profits. Our employees are not compensated based on either the fees we earn from their advisory services or recommendations, or the time and complexity required to meet a client's needs. Our employees are not compensated based on the products they sell. Our employees do not receive any transaction-based compensation.
