- What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education, and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?

What Fees and Costs Will I Pay?

Our fees for providing investment advisory services are generally based on a percentage of assets under management. Fees for clients will be up to 1%. Fees will be determined based on complexity, assets and other factors related to each particular client. We may also charge account opening fees, which will be based on various factors, as described in more detail in the investment management agreement. If applicable, there are also charges from third parties, such as broker dealers. If we select a third-party investment manager for you, those managers such as mutual funds, exchange traded funds and alternative investment funds, all of which also charge internal management fees, expenses and possibly, performance fees, which they disclose in the prospectus for those funds. You are also responsible for these fees, in addition to investment-related taxes. We do not receive any portion of these commissions, fees, or costs.

Since we collect an asset-based fee, the more assets there are in your account, in general, the more you will pay in fees, and we therefore have an incentive to encourage you to increase the assets in your account. You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying.

- Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interests ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they could affect the investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what that means:

- There is a conflict of interest for us because the compensation we earn on advisory accounts is based on assets under management, so if we were to assign a higher value to client portfolios, the fees we collect would be higher.
- Because we earn compensation based on assets under management, we may select higher risk investments, based on our projection of appreciation in the value of such securities.

Conflicts are identified, discussed and their mitigation are discussed in various sections of Form ADV 2A; In particular, Items 6, 10, 11, 12, 17 and the Other Conflicts, Risk and Mitigation sections of Form ADV 2A.
