Disclosure Summary

Disclosure Information

What you should know about reported disclosure events:

(1) Certain thresholds must be met before an event is reported to IARD, for example:

- A law enforcement agency must file formal charges before an Investment Adviser Representative is required to report a particular criminal event.;
- A customer dispute must involve allegations that an Investment Adviser Representative engaged in activity that violates certain rules or conduct governing the industry and that the activity resulted in damages of at least $5,000.

(2) Disclosure events in IAPD reports come from different sources:

As mentioned in the "About IAPD" section on page 1 of this report, information contained in IAPD comes from Investment Adviser Representatives, firms and regulators. When more than one of these sources reports information for the same disclosure event, all versions of the event will appear in the IAPD report. The different versions will be separated by a solid line with the reporting source labeled.

(3) There are different statuses and dispositions for disclosure events:

- A disclosure event may have a status of pending, on appeal, or final.
  - A "pending" disclosure event involves allegations that have not been proven or formally adjudicated.
  - A disclosure event that is "on appeal" involves allegations that have been adjudicated but are currently being appealed.
  - A "final" disclosure event has been concluded and its resolution is not subject to change.
- A final disclosure event generally has a disposition of adjudicated, settled or otherwise resolved.
  - An "adjudicated" matter includes a disposition by (1) a court of law in a criminal or civil matter, or (2) an administrative panel in an action brought by a regulator that is contested by the party charged with some alleged wrongdoing.
  - A "settled" matter generally represents a disposition wherein the parties involved in a dispute reach an agreement to resolve the matter. Please note that Investment Adviser Representatives and firms may choose to settle customer disputes or regulatory matters for business or other reasons.
  - A "resolved" matter usually includes a disposition wherein no payment is made to the customer or there is no finding of wrongdoing on the part of the Investment Adviser Representative. Such matters generally involve customer disputes.

Broker Statement

Mr. Casper changed his residency to Florida but did not open an office in Florida. He performed work from home, but his home office met the SEC exception for an office. At the time of his move, he was registered as a Broker/Dealer with the State of Florida, but was not registered as an IAR. Florida does not recognize the exception relied upon, and as a result issued a notice of deficiency for not being properly registered in the state while performing services as an IAR.

In late 2021 his employing firm started doing more research on the matter and determined a more conservative approach should be taken and registration was initiated. This resulted in a notice of deficiency, involvement of legal counsel and negotiations as to the monetary fine to be levied.

After working with legal counsel, an agreement as to a monetary fine was reached on or around April 7, 2022 which has since been paid in full. Mr. Casper ceased doing business from Florida from the time he realized he was not properly registered until the time the agreement had been made and payment for the monetary fine sent. At all times prior to receipt of the notice of deficiency from the State of Florida, Mr. Casper believed he was properly registered to do business in the state of Florida based on advice from his compliance department.

No allegations were made that any investor was harmed in any manner as a result of this error, nor was any investor harmed in any way due to the failure to be properly registered.

Mr. Casper has been an IAR for Cozad Asset Management, Inc. since 1998 and has had no complaints or other violations since he began working for Cozad Asset Management, Inc.
