Disclosure Summary

Disclosure Information

What you should know about reported disclosure events:

(1) Certain thresholds must be met before an event is reported to IARD, for example:

- A law enforcement agency must file formal charges before an Investment Adviser Representative is required to report a particular criminal event.;
- A customer dispute must involve allegations that an Investment Adviser Representative engaged in activity that violates certain rules or conduct governing the industry and that the activity resulted in damages of at least $5,000.

(2) Disclosure events in IAPD reports come from different sources:

As mentioned in the "About IAPD" section on page 1 of this report, information contained in IAPD comes from Investment Adviser Representatives, firms and regulators. When more than one of these sources reports information for the same disclosure event, all versions of the event will appear in the IAPD report. The different versions will be separated by a solid line with the reporting source labeled.

(3) There are different statuses and dispositions for disclosure events:

- A disclosure event may have a status of pending, on appeal, or final.
  - A "pending" disclosure event involves allegations that have not been proven or formally adjudicated.
  - A disclosure event that is "on appeal" involves allegations that have been adjudicated but are currently being appealed.
  - A "final" disclosure event has been concluded and its resolution is not subject to change.
- A final disclosure event generally has a disposition of adjudicated, settled or otherwise resolved.
  - An "adjudicated" matter includes a disposition by (1) a court of law in a criminal or civil matter, or (2) an administrative panel in an action brought by a regulator that is contested by the party charged with some alleged wrongdoing.
  - A "settled" matter generally represents a disposition wherein the parties involved in a dispute reach an agreement to resolve the matter. Please note that Investment Adviser Representatives and firms may choose to settle customer disputes or regulatory matters for business or other reasons.
  - A "resolved" matter usually includes a disposition wherein no payment is made to the customer or there is no finding of wrongdoing on the part of the Investment Adviser Representative. Such matters generally involve customer disputes.

Broker Statement

The customers' investment program was structured with staggered maturities pursuant to the customers' stated retirement time horizon at the time the investment was made. The customers fully participated in discussions about the details of their investments on a regular basis, often multiple times per year. Further, the client has a longer term experience in some of these investments, beginning in 2006. While a current sale would incur some termination fees, applying the planned holding period, the customer appears to have earned a positive return. The customers' daughter is a broker and they are transferring the account to her firm; our belief is that the complaint was precipitated during this move and the customer was coached on the wording of the correspondence. The representative maintains that the investments in question were suitable at the time of their recommendation and that the customers were fully apprised of the liquidity and other features of the investments at the time that they approved the investments.

Broker Statement

Prior to the pandemic, I launched an outside business venture that was unrelated to my financial advisory practice. This venture required personal guarantees, and, due to business challenges exacerbated by the pandemic, it ultimately failed, resulting in a personal bankruptcy filing. It is important to note that this business was entirely separate from my financial planning practice, and there was no impact on my clients or the services provided to them.
