IAPD Information About Representatives

IAPD offers information on all current-and many former representatives. Investors are strongly encouraged to use IAPD to check the background of representatives before deciding to conduct, or continue to conduct, business with them.

What is included in a IAPD report?

IAPD reports for individual representatives include information such as employment history, professional qualifications, disciplinary actions, criminal convictions, civil judgments and arbitration awards.

It is important to note that the information contained in an IAPD report may include pending actions or allegations that may be contested, unresolved or unproven. In the end, these actions or allegations may be resolved in favor of the representative, or concluded through a negotiated settlement with no admission or finding of wrongdoing.

Where did this information come from?

The information contained in IAPD comes from the Investment Adviser Registration Depository (IARD) and FINRA's Central Registration Depository, or CRD, (see more on CRD below) and is a combination of:

- information the states require representatives and firms to submit as part of the registration and licensing process, and
- information that state regulators report regarding disciplinary actions or allegations against representatives.

How current is this information?

Generally, representatives are required to update their professional and disciplinary information in IARD within 30 days.

Need help interpreting this report?

For help understanding how to read this report, please consult NASAA's IAPD Tips page <http://www.nasaa.org/IAPD/IARReports.cfm>

What if I want to check the background of an Individual Broker or Brokerage Firm?

To check the background of an Individual Broker or Brokerage firm, you can search for the firm or individual in IAPD. If your search is successful, click on the link provided to view the available licensing and registration information in FINRA's BrokerCheck website.

Are there other resources I can use to check the background of investment professionals?

It is recommended that you learn as much as possible about an individual representative or Investment Adviser firm before deciding to work with them. Your state securities regulator can help you research individuals and certain firms doing business in your state. The contact information for state securities regulators can be found on the website of the North American Securities Administrators Association <http://www.nasaa.org>

Disclosure Summary

Disclosure Information

What you should know about reported disclosure events:

(1) Certain thresholds must be met before an event is reported to IARD, for example:

- A law enforcement agency must file formal charges before an Investment Adviser Representative is required to report a particular criminal event.;
- A customer dispute must involve allegations that an Investment Adviser Representative engaged in activity that violates certain rules or conduct governing the industry and that the activity resulted in damages of at least $5,000.

(2) Disclosure events in IAPD reports come from different sources:

As mentioned in the "About IAPD" section on page 1 of this report, information contained in IAPD comes from Investment Adviser Representatives, firms and regulators. When more than one of these sources reports information for the same disclosure event, all versions of the event will appear in the IAPD report. The different versions will be separated by a solid line with the reporting source labeled.

(3) There are different statuses and dispositions for disclosure events:

- A disclosure event may have a status of pending, on appeal, or final.
  - A "pending" disclosure event involves allegations that have not been proven or formally adjudicated.
  - A disclosure event that is "on appeal" involves allegations that have been adjudicated but are currently being appealed.
  - A "final" disclosure event has been concluded and its resolution is not subject to change.
- A final disclosure event generally has a disposition of adjudicated, settled or otherwise resolved.
  - An "adjudicated" matter includes a disposition by (1) a court of law in a criminal or civil matter, or (2) an administrative panel in an action brought by a regulator that is contested by the party charged with some alleged wrongdoing.
  - A "settled" matter generally represents a disposition wherein the parties involved in a dispute reach an agreement to resolve the matter. Please note that Investment Adviser Representatives and firms may choose to settle customer disputes or regulatory matters for business or other reasons.
  - A "resolved" matter usually includes a disposition wherein no payment is made to the customer or there is no finding of wrongdoing on the part of the Investment Adviser Representative. Such matters generally involve customer disputes.

(4) You may wish to contact the Investment Adviser Representatives to obtain further information regarding any of the disclosure events contained in this IAPD report.

DISCLOSURE EVENT DETAILS

When evaluating this information, please keep in mind that some items may involve pending actions or allegations that may be contested and have not been resolved or proven. The event may, in the end, be withdrawn, dismissed, resolved in favor of the Investment Adviser Representative, or concluded through a negotiated settlement with no admission or finding of wrongdoing.

This report provides the information exactly as it was reported to the Investment Adviser Registration Depository. Some of the specific data fields contained in the report may be blank if the information was not provided.

The following types of events are disclosed about this representative:

Ms. [REDACTED] is incorrect in her belief about the decline in the value of her accounts while she was working with me. Ms. [REDACTED] did not invest or lose $600,000 with me. She only put approximately $440,000 under management with me. When Ms. [REDACTED] chose to close her accounts in April 2023, she withdrew approximately $264,000. Ms. [REDACTED]'s accounts with me didn't decline by anything like the $600,000 she claims.

Based on what Ms. [REDACTED] told me, I believed I was managing only about one-half of her liquid assets. She told me that she had approximately $200,000 in cash and about $200,000 in a 401K outside my management. She told me that her time horizon for her funds invested with me was ten years.

Ms. [REDACTED] agreed that the assets I had under management for her would be the growth portion of her overall portfolio and that assets she held outside my management would provide diversification and offset risk in the accounts I managed for her.

Ms. [REDACTED] told me that she had a ten-year period in which she was investing her funds with me for growth. I advised her that with her objective for growth in that portion of her portfolio, she might experience a decline in a year but that, with her ten-year horizon, she would be well placed to overcome and advance from such a loss. She understood and agreed to the strategy I undertook for her and to the corresponding risk.

From January 1, 2023, through April 2023, when Ms. [REDACTED] closed her accounts with me, her accounts under my management saw a significant return. Just as I told her, while short-term fluctuations in her accounts were to be expected, with her ten-year horizon, she would see the short-term declines recover. If she had left her accounts with me, she would have seen significant growth in her account so far in 2023.

I don't understand Ms. [REDACTED] complaint about me not communicating with her. I communicated with her often and regularly in response to her requests for information and questions.

Many investors suffered portfolio losses in 2022 with the widespread market decline. That decline touched Ms. [REDACTED]'s accounts with me. But I'm not at fault in causing the decline in her accounts in 2022. Her accounts with me were invested consistently with the growth objective and risk tolerance she directed to me.
