Disclosure Summary

Disclosure Information

What you should know about reported disclosure events:

(1) Certain thresholds must be met before an event is reported to IARD, for example:

- A law enforcement agency must file formal charges before an Investment Adviser Representative is required to report a particular criminal event.;
- A customer dispute must involve allegations that an Investment Adviser Representative engaged in activity that violates certain rules or conduct governing the industry and that the activity resulted in damages of at least $5,000.

(2) Disclosure events in IAPD reports come from different sources:

As mentioned in the "About IAPD" section on page 1 of this report, information contained in IAPD comes from Investment Adviser Representatives, firms and regulators. When more than one of these sources reports information for the same disclosure event, all versions of the event will appear in the IAPD report. The different versions will be separated by a solid line with the reporting source labeled.

(3) There are different statuses and dispositions for disclosure events:

- A disclosure event may have a status of pending, on appeal, or final.
 - A "pending" disclosure event involves allegations that have not been proven or formally adjudicated.
 - A disclosure event that is "on appeal" involves allegations that have been adjudicated but are currently being appealed.
 - A "final" disclosure event has been concluded and its resolution is not subject to change.
- A final disclosure event generally has a disposition of adjudicated, settled or otherwise resolved.
 - An "adjudicated" matter includes a disposition by (1) a court of law in a criminal or civil matter, or (2) an administrative panel in an action brought by a regulator that is contested by the party charged with some alleged wrongdoing.
 - A "settled" matter generally represents a disposition wherein the parties involved in a dispute reach an agreement to resolve the matter. Please note that Investment Adviser Representatives and firms may choose to settle customer disputes or regulatory matters for business or other reasons.
 - A "resolved" matter usually includes a disposition wherein no payment is made to the customer or there is no finding of wrongdoing on the part of the Investment Adviser Representative. Such matters generally involve customer disputes.

(4) You may wish to contact the Investment Adviser Representatives to obtain further information regarding any of the disclosure events contained in this IAPD report.

Broker Statement

Claimant alleged that Prosper Financial Advisers ("Prosper") and its agents/owners agreed to allocate cash in certain of Claimant's accounts to a money market fund rather than custodian's sweep account. Had the cash been allocated in such manner, Claimant would have earned a higher return. Client received multiple documents, at different times during the engagement, and had access to client's portal, at all times during the engagement, reflecting that cash had not been allocated to money market funds but rather had been allocated to custodian's sweep account. Claimant never raised with Prosper any discrepancy with how the cash was being allocated. Claimant raised the discrepancy with Waverly Advisors, LLC, which had purchased the investment advisory business of Prosper in the interim, many months after the cash was allocated by Prosper to the sweep account. Waverly Advisors, LLC and Claimant agreed to settle the interest rate differential for a lump sum payment of $17,025.55. The settlement was subject to the parties' (and predecessors) express rejection of any liability or wrongdoing.
