Disclosure Summary

Disclosure Information

What you should know about reported disclosure events:

(1) Certain thresholds must be met before an event is reported to IARD, for example:

- A law enforcement agency must file formal charges before an Investment Adviser Representative is required to report a particular criminal event.;
- A customer dispute must involve allegations that an Investment Adviser Representative engaged in activity that violates certain rules or conduct governing the industry and that the activity resulted in damages of at least $5,000.

(2) Disclosure events in IAPD reports come from different sources:

As mentioned in the "About IAPD" section on page 1 of this report, information contained in IAPD comes from Investment Adviser Representatives, firms and regulators. When more than one of these sources reports information for the same disclosure event, all versions of the event will appear in the IAPD report. The different versions will be separated by a solid line with the reporting source labeled.

(3) There are different statuses and dispositions for disclosure events:

- A disclosure event may have a status of pending, on appeal, or final.
  - A "pending" disclosure event involves allegations that have not been proven or formally adjudicated.
  - A disclosure event that is "on appeal" involves allegations that have been adjudicated but are currently being appealed.
  - A "final" disclosure event has been concluded and its resolution is not subject to change.
- A final disclosure event generally has a disposition of adjudicated, settled or otherwise resolved.
  - An "adjudicated" matter includes a disposition by (1) a court of law in a criminal or civil matter, or (2) an administrative panel in an action brought by a regulator that is contested by the party charged with some alleged wrongdoing.
  - A "settled" matter generally represents a disposition wherein the parties involved in a dispute reach an agreement to resolve the matter. Please note that Investment Adviser Representatives and firms may choose to settle customer disputes or regulatory matters for business or other reasons.
  - A "resolved" matter usually includes a disposition wherein no payment is made to the customer or there is no finding of wrongdoing on the part of the Investment Adviser Representative. Such matters generally involve customer disputes.

(4) You may wish to contact the Investment Adviser Representatives to obtain further information regarding any of the disclosure events contained in this IAPD report.

Disclosure 1 of 2

Reporting Source: Regulator

Regulatory Action Initiated By: FINRA

Sanction(s) Sought:

Date Initiated: 12/27/2021

Docket/Case Number: 2020065901001

Employing firm when activity occurred which led to the regulatory action: Waddell & Reed, Inc.

Product Type: Annuity-Fixed
Other: individual retirement account (IRA)

Allegations: Without admitting or denying the findings, Post consented to the sanctions and to the entry of findings that he forged customer signatures on transaction documents without the customers' authorization. The findings stated that one customer completed and signed a fixed index annuity application, but it was returned because it needed corrections. Rather than returning the application to the customer to make the required changes, Post made the change and forged the customer's signature twice on the application, without the customer's authorization. Another customer completed and signed an individual retirement account (IRA) transfer request form to roll over their IRA from another custodian to Post's member firm. For this transaction, however, a separate transfer of assets form should have been submitted. Instead of having the customer execute the transfer of assets form, Post completed the form and forged the customer's signature on the form, without the customer's authorization. The findings also stated that Post falsified transaction documents. A third customer completed and signed an IRA transfer request form to transfer all funds from his IRA at the firm to a Transfer on Death account at the firm. The transfer request form was returned because it should have been marked as a normal IRA distribution. Post subsequently altered the form to decrease the amount of assets transferred, because an IRA liquidation could not be made through the transfer request form, and to correctly mark it as a normal distribution. The customer did not sign or initial the altered form prior to Post submitting it for processing. The findings also included that Post caused his firm to maintain inaccurate books and records by forging the transfer of assets form and falsifying the IRA transfer request form.
