IAPD Information About Representatives

IAPD offers information on all current-and many former representatives. Investors are strongly encouraged to use IAPD to check the background of representatives before deciding to conduct, or continue to conduct, business with them.

What is included in a IAPD report?

IAPD reports for individual representatives include information such as employment history, professional qualifications, disciplinary actions, criminal convictions, civil judgments and arbitration awards.

It is important to note that the information contained in an IAPD report may include pending actions or allegations that may be contested, unresolved or unproven. In the end, these actions or allegations may be resolved in favor of the representative, or concluded through a negotiated settlement with no admission or finding of wrongdoing.

Where did this information come from?

The information contained in IAPD comes from the Investment Adviser Registration Depository (IARD) and FINRA's Central Registration Depository, or CRD, (see more on CRD below) and is a combination of:

- information the states require representatives and firms to submit as part of the registration and licensing process, and
- information that state regulators report regarding disciplinary actions or allegations against representatives.

How current is this information?

Generally, representatives are required to update their professional and disciplinary information in IARD within 30 days.

Need help interpreting this report?

For help understanding how to read this report, please consult NASAA's IAPD Tips page <http://www.nasaa.org/IAPD/IARReports.cfm>

What if I want to check the background of an Individual Broker or Brokerage Firm?

To check the background of an Individual Broker or Brokerage firm, you can search for the firm or individual in IAPD. If your search is successful, click on the link provided to view the available licensing and registration information in FINRA's BrokerCheck website.

Are there other resources I can use to check the background of investment professionals?

It is recommended that you learn as much as possible about an individual representative or Investment Adviser firm before deciding to work with them. Your state securities regulator can help you research individuals and certain firms doing business in your state. The contact information for state securities regulators can be found on the website of the North American Securities Administrators Association <http://www.nasaa.org>

Disclosure Summary

Disclosure Information

What you should know about reported disclosure events:

(1) Certain thresholds must be met before an event is reported to IARD, for example:

- A law enforcement agency must file formal charges before an Investment Adviser Representative is required to report a particular criminal event.;
- A customer dispute must involve allegations that an Investment Adviser Representative engaged in activity that violates certain rules or conduct governing the industry and that the activity resulted in damages of at least $5,000.

(2) Disclosure events in IAPD reports come from different sources:

As mentioned in the "About IAPD" section on page 1 of this report, information contained in IAPD comes from Investment Adviser Representatives, firms and regulators. When more than one of these sources reports information for the same disclosure event, all versions of the event will appear in the IAPD report. The different versions will be separated by a solid line with the reporting source labeled.

(3) There are different statuses and dispositions for disclosure events:

- A disclosure event may have a status of pending, on appeal, or final.
  - A "pending" disclosure event involves allegations that have not been proven or formally adjudicated.
  - A disclosure event that is "on appeal" involves allegations that have been adjudicated but are currently being appealed.
  - A "final" disclosure event has been concluded and its resolution is not subject to change.
- A final disclosure event generally has a disposition of adjudicated, settled or otherwise resolved.
  - An "adjudicated" matter includes a disposition by (1) a court of law in a criminal or civil matter, or (2) an administrative panel in an action brought by a regulator that is contested by the party charged with some alleged wrongdoing.
  - A "settled" matter generally represents a disposition wherein the parties involved in a dispute reach an agreement to resolve the matter. Please note that Investment Adviser Representatives and firms may choose to settle customer disputes or regulatory matters for business or other reasons.
  - A "resolved" matter usually includes a disposition wherein no payment is made to the customer or there is no finding of wrongdoing on the part of the Investment Adviser Representative. Such matters generally involve customer disputes.

(4) You may wish to contact the Investment Adviser Representatives to obtain further information regarding any of the disclosure events contained in this IAPD report.

Broker Statement

On April 17, 1996, approximately 29 years ago, I was convicted of attempted sexual assault. This conviction stemmed from more serious initial charges, which were ultimately reduced as part of a plea agreement. This incident represents a singular, profound lapse in judgment and an impulsive action that has had a significant and lasting impact on my life.

On December 8, 2016, the judgment for this conviction was officially set aside by the Arizona Superior Court (pursuant to A.R.S. § 13-905). This legal action dismissed the judgment of guilt and released me from all penalties and disabilities directly resulting from the conviction. It is important to note that while this action indicates the court's satisfaction with my rehabilitation, the original conviction remains on my record with an annotation reflecting that the judgment has been set aside; it does not expunge or seal the record from public view.

In a further effort to address all aspects of this past event and demonstrate my rehabilitation, on March 24, 2016, I filed a petition with the Arizona Superior Court to request the lifelong registration requirement be lifted. Although the petition was ultimately denied, the presiding judge, Hon. Danelle B. Liwski, noted in her ruling that "The evidence presented to the Court shows the Defendant is not a risk to the community and if the Court had the discretion to grant request the request would be granted. The Court does not have that discretion as the law is currently written." This judicial comment underscores the Court's assessment of my current character and lack of risk.

Following this event, I proactively engaged with qualified professionals for comprehensive evaluation. Through extensive psychological testing, including polygraph examinations, it was determined that this was an isolated, impulsive act and not indicative of a predilection for such behavior. The passage of 29 years since the incident has consistently borne out these professional assessments. Furthermore, as a testament to my sustained rehabilitation and stable life, I have been married for 20 years, raising two children in a respectable and respectful home environment.

I deeply regret the harm caused by my actions during that period and have since been unreservedly committed to living a life of integrity, accountability, and ethical conduct. I understand the gravity of this disclosure and am fully dedicated to upholding the highest professional standards required of an Investment Adviser

Representative.
